What is light language? RE-Evolution

Light language is a form of multidimensional communication that speaks to your DNA in the highest encoded frequencies of light. Full of sacred geometry, data packets, key codes that carry divine knowledge, divine truth, and pure soul resonance. This is the RE-Evolution as we are waking up to our true potential as primordial beings. Light language is the perfect divine tool for your ascension path. We have been disconnected from our most sacred form of communication. As it was said first there was the “word”, the God consciousness was referring to sound, sound makes vibration, vibration makes light, light is the sacred container to deliver some of the most complex formulations of the truth in the form of light codes, mathematical data packages, symbols, tones, rhythmic vibrations, and sacred geometrical patterns. When we heal trauma bonds, connected to our sacred communication within the DNA this allows the activation in bridging the higher self to the higher heart. Light Language can also activate randomly by hearing another speaker. When light language is activated within the DNA and in the high heart it brings a pure stream of consciousness from the higher self, bypassing all ego and bridging this divine light channel. Light language helps us communicate in a pure empathic manner. This language is a form of communication that is sacred and can be spoken, written, expressed through movement, and signed with hands. It is time for us to awaken to our true soul voice and expressions of the soul. These different forms have a unique expression of empathic communication.

What is the difference between light language and our everyday language?

We have been trained, conditioned, and programmed to listen in an analytical manner, then respond or react. This process uses a certain part of the brain which takes away our natural empathic communication separated from our key empathic light sensitivities. This brings a lot of focus on understanding words which prevents us from using our feelings and senses first. Then we re-create these words within our mind and start to create our own understandings by matching them to memories or experiences as opposed to allowing a natural Divine Unfoldment. This is a very slow process of communication.

Light language does not need to be understood. It is understood by the soul, the higher self and DNA, and with highest intention and clarity. In a truly remarkable and unique empathic nature that energetically resonates through your entire being. This removes the feeling of separation as you are meant to feel this language. It will resonate deeply within your heart. You will feel it in your bones, you'll feel it in your cells, and light bodies. The emotional body can feel the most overwhelming compassion when we feel this expression of light. Visions of symbols, the past, the present, and the future, this is literally a bridge to Divinity. This is connecting you to your angelic and galactic heritage.

How to open, receive, and integrate light language?

We open our hearts and sit in our heart resonance, let go of all future expectations, let go of all past attachments, and allow ourselves to be fully present in this moment. The more you open to this present moment, you allow yourself to feel the magic and miracles without expectation, or attachment. This allows us to open and feel the most sacred form of communication to come through in such a natural organic divine unfoldment. This occurs through your higher self-channels which are bridged into your heart, high heart and throughout your entire energetic and cellular systems. All in a perfect divine harmonic resonance for you. The more you can just sit in this moment the more miracles you will receive

How to connect deeply with our light language?

Always set the highest intention when using this sacred language in a healing environment or sacred space. Connect to your highest source frequency communication free from all distortion and in the highest service of unconditional love and light. Center in your heart and when you are ready starts speaking.

What to expect when your light language starts.

First of all, it was such an interesting experience for me when I started to speak light language.

There is no exact method for the process to begin as we are all unique. The most important aspect is to always clear ego, and practice speaking from your heart. Find a comfortable place to speak as this is a new feeling and you want to make yourself as comfortable as possible.

This brings in such a different level of understanding and comprehension. I want you to feel this language as building a bridge. This is the bridge to your clarity and your purity in your heart.

When I started to speak light language this was a three-month process for me. It started out with an upset tummy, really bad acid reflux. This made me feel nauseous and as it was the bridging of my heart and my high heart. If you are Divinely called to speak light language and you repress this you may feel these symptoms during the opening and activating of this language. I realized that I had been so repressed from speaking my truth, that this made it harder for my light language to come out. We have a natural tendency to want to filter communication which is never the case with light language. The more I tried to repress the more this feeling built up in my heart and higher heart to the point where I just couldn't even hold it in anymore.

Then finally sat in a divine meditative space and I opened my mouth. I could feel this energetic feeling being pulled from my high heart coming out. At first my light language sounded like a foreign language. It was very odd. This is quite normal as we are learning to open up and trust ourselves. Trusting the communication as it will begin to break down all of these barriers and limitations as we open to Divine Trust and Integrity.

Even though my light language didn't come out clear, not even that nice sounding at first it felt great to relieve the pressure built up in my heart when I would speak. My favorite time for speaking light language was while I would be driving in the car as this was always a great time as I was by myself and had lots of time to speak freely. It's quite common at first to not feel comfortable when we first speak light language. As we are breaking through our insecurities. Go somewhere that you can sing, be silly and express your childlike innocence. This is the best way to get your light language out.

How to Go a Little deeper.

This experience of opening my light language really taught me that there is a divine ebb and flow to speaking. You can feel the language swinging back and forth as energy is rising through the high heart and out your mouth which is essentially coming through your higher channels bridging all of these aspects. Learn to sit within this stream and there is such a natural flow. Finding this natural rhythm for your light language.

Light language Origin and History

Light language was spoken during Atlantis and Lumeria and many other civilizations as this was the main communication along with telepathy. Light language was spoken freely among the Anuhazi, Azurite and Founder Races until the fall of Atlantis. There was a major magnetic solar blast through the earth grid which disrupted everyone's DNA even further causing the disconnection over languages and the remembrance of who we are. This was the last time we've spoken our true open-heart/angelic/galactic languages. Light language used to be a common tongue since the beginning of the time. This is something that made the human experience so beautiful having this empathic sense of communication. There were many Earth dialects and founder races (Anuhazi being the first spoken light language here). These ancient cultures understood the frequency and vibration of words. But over time we became more and more disconnected from our DNA and therefore we lost our connection to the sacred languages. Bit by bit they disappeared and new languages formed that were built on separation and ego.

This was the big shift from the heart and into the mind that contributed to the further falling of the human experience. Although there were different aspects of this language that came out, like speaking in tongues or other forms of tribal language that had more of a soul connection, there was still something that was lacking from achieving full connection.
